THE INTERNATIONAL INSTITUTE OF AGRICULTURE

The International Institute of Agriculture was established under the International Treaty of June 7th, 1905, which was ratified by 40 Governments. Fifteen other Governments have since adhered to the Institute.

It is a Government Institution in which each Country is represented by delegates. The Institute is composed of a General Assembly and a permanent Committee.

The Institute, confining its operations within an international sphere, shall :

- (a) Collect, study, and publish as promptly as possible, statistical, technical, or economic information concerning farming, vegetable and animal products, the commerce in agricultural products, and the prices prevailing in the various markets ;
 - (b) Communicate to parties interested, also as promptly as possible, the above information ;
 - (c) Indicate the wages paid for farm work ;
 - (d) Make known the new diseases of plants which may appear in any part of the world, showing the territories infected, the progress of the diseases, and, if possible, the remedies which are effective ;
 - (e) Study questions concerning agricultural co-operation, insurance, and credit in all their aspects ; collect and publish information which might be useful in the various countries for the organisation of works connected with agricultural co-operation, insurance and credit ;
 - (f) Submit to the approval of the Governments, if there is occasion for it, measures for the protection of the common interests of farmers and for the improvement of their condition, after having utilized all the necessary sources of information, such as the wishes expressed by international or other agricultural congresses, by congresses of sciences applied to agriculture, or by agricultural societies, academies, learned bodies, etc.

EXPLANATORY NOTE

1. The present Table of Contents refers to the twelve numbers of the Bulletin of Social and Economic Intelligence published from January to December, 1913, and includes, therefore, all the articles and notes dealing with Co-operation, Insurance, Credit and Agricultural Economy in General contained in these volumes.

2. The articles and notes relating to Co-operation have been grouped in 23 classes; those dealing with Insurance are divided into 16 classes; those which deal with Credit into 7 classes; and those which treat of Agricultural Economy in General into 15. A complete list of these classes precedes the Table. In our classification we have followed the rule of single entry and placed under only one heading those articles and notes which, from the nature of the subject treated, might appear in more than one group.

As it is not in every case clear why an article or note has been assigned to one group rather than to another, the reader must be prepared to refer to the several analogous groups in any one of which a particular article or note might appear. A dairymen's co-operative society, for example, may have as its object the protection of the general economic interests of dairy farmers as a class, or simply the improvement of the methods of production, transport, and sale, or again, the purchase and collective use of animals of the special dairy type. An article relating to such a society might appear under various headings, according as it dealt more particularly with one or other of these objects.

3. In each group the articles and notes have been sub-divided by countries, following the alphabetical order as established in the arrangement of articles in the French edition of the Bulletin of Economic and Social Intelligence: (Allemagne, Argentine, Autriche, etc.). For each country the articles are arranged in the chronological order in which they were published. We have added a table giving the classification by countries.

4. The letter M or R has been placed after the title of each article or note, indicating that the entry refers to a monograph or to an item of recent news or miscellaneous information.
